☐ the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international preliminary examination (under Rule 55.2 and/or 55.3).

3. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application, the international preliminary examination was carried out on the basis of the sequence listing:

- ☐ contained in the international application in written form.
☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in written form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in computer readable form.
☐ The statement that the subsequently furnished written sequence listing does not go beyond the disclosure in the international application as filed has been furnished.
☐ The statement that the information recorded in computer readable form is identical to the written sequence listing has been furnished.

4. The amendments have resulted in the cancellation of:

- ☐ the description, pages:

☐ the claims, or said claims Nos. are so inadequately supported by the description that no meaningful opinion could be formed.

☐ no international search report has been established for the said claims Nos..

2. A meaningful international preliminary examination cannot be carried out due to the failure of the nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence listing to comply with the standard provided for in Annex C of the Administrative Instructions:

☐ the written form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard. ;

☐ the computer readable form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard. .

Re Item III

Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

Claims 12 and 13 relate to subject-matter considered by this Authority to be covered by the provisions of Rule 67.1(iv) PCT. Consequently, no opinion will be formulated with respect to the industrial applicability of the subject-matter of these claims (Article 34(4)(a)(i) PCT).

Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

- 1) The present compounds differ from the closest prior art represented by US-A-6,306,869 und US-A-6,008,214 which concern the same problem to be solved essentially in the OR₆ substituent which is not present in the prior art.

Accordingly, the present subject-matter is novel pursuant to Article 33(2) PCT.

- 2) Since a skilled person would not think of replacing a hydrogen by the present OR₆ group which creates a totally different electronical environments just at the present position and nowhere else in order to obtain PDE inhibitors as could be proved by the applicant (cf. table 1 ond page 27) an inventive step with regard to Article 33(3) PCT could be acknowledged for the the claimed subject-matter.
- 3) For the assessment of the present claims 12 and 13 on the question whether they are industrially applicable, no unified criteria exist in the PCT Contracting States. The patentability can also be dependent upon the formulation of the claims. The EPO, for example, does not recognize as industrially applicable the subject-matter of claims to the use of a compound in medical treatment, but may allow, however, claims to a known compound for first use in medical treatment and the use of such a compound for the manufacture of a medicament for a new medical treatment.
